How College Students Change Their Writing for Different Audiences

This survey is for a research project about how college students change their writing depending on who they are communicating with and why. The questions focus on writing habits, tone, formality, and effort in different situations. Participation is voluntary, and responses will be used for a college research assignment. Please do not include your name or other identifying information.

1. Are you currently a college or university student?

   Mark only one oval.

   - ◯ Yes
   - ◯ No

2. What is your major or general field of study?

   _____

3. What year of college are you in?

   Mark only one oval.

   - ◯ Freshman
   - ◯ Sophomore
   - ◯ Junior
   - ◯ Senior
   - ◯ Grad student or above

4. Do you change the way you write depending on who will read your message?

Mark only one oval.

- ◯ Always
- ◯ Often
- ◯ Somtimes
- ◯ Rarely
- ◯ Never

Survey time.

The rest of the survey is will interview the way you would respond to specific purposes and audiences. you can select more than one answer if you want and write custom ways you'd respond in the "other" section.

If you want, you can take note of extenuating circumstances that might change, you'd write in the "other" section too.

5. You need to send a message to a professor explaining that you will miss class. How would you most likely write it? (if you want you can take not of extenuating circumstances that might change you answer in the other section)

Check all that apply.

- ☐ Formal with a greeting, explanation, and sign-off.
- ☐ Short, polite message that gets straight to the point.
- ☐ Casual message explaining the situation in my usual voice.
- ☐ Detailed explanation with background information and reasoning.
- ☐ Other: _____

6. You are texting a close friend to tell them you cannot hang out today. Which writing style would you most likely use?

Check all that apply.

- [ ] Formal with a greeting, explanation, and sign-off.
- [ ] Short, polite message that gets straight to the point.
- [ ] Casual message explaining the situation in my usual voice.
- [ ] Detailed explanation with background information and reasoning.
- [ ] Other: _____

7. You are messaging your boss to explain that you will be late to work. Which writing style would you most likely use?

Check all that apply.

- [ ] Formal with a greeting, explanation, and sign-off.
- [ ] Short, polite message that gets straight to the point.
- [ ] Casual message explaining the situation in my usual voice.
- [ ] Detailed explanation with background information and reasoning.
- [ ] Other: _____

8. You are posting a comment in a group chat with classmates about an upcoming assignment. Which writing style would you most likely use?

Check all that apply.

- [ ] Formal with a greeting, explanation, and sign-off.
- [ ] Short, polite message that gets straight to the point.
- [ ] Casual message explaining the situation in my usual voice.
- [ ] Detailed explanation with background information and reasoning.
- [ ] Other: _____

9. You are writing to a family member to share some relevant information to the family as a whole. Which writing style would you most likely use?

Check all that apply.

- [ ] Formal with a greeting, explanation, and sign-off.
- [ ] Short, polite message that gets straight to the point.
- [ ] Casual message explaining the situation in my usual voice.
- [ ] Detailed explanation with background information and reasoning.
- [ ] Other: _____

This content is neither created nor endorsed by Google.

Google Forms